During my late tour, I visited the most eminent professional men in Europe, observed their mode of practice and DISEASES OF MEN AND WOMEN, and obtained new information of invaluable service to the medical profession. I am not familiar with the city with which I am not familiar, which is the case with the American. The lectures of those professors of great merit here in the U.S.A. are now being given in cities hitherto deemed hopeless, and are inspiring hope in cases hitherto deemed hopeless.
